A PROCLAMATION.

BY THE GOVERNOR.

By enactment of the Legislature of Wisconsin, the Executive is authorized to designate a day to be known as Arbor Day, to be observed by the people of this state in planting trees for the benefit and adornment of school and public grounds.

Now, therefore, I, William D. Hoard, Governor of the State of Wisconsin, do appoint and designate Tuesday, the 30th day of April, as Arbor Day, and I do exhort all schools and colleges to observe the same by "suitable exercises, holding for their object the imparting of knowledge of horticulture in the adornment of school and public grounds," and further recommend that the day be a holiday in all schools and colleges in promoting the objects of the law.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand, and caused the great seal of the State of Wisconsin to be affixed. Done at the capital, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty-nine.

WILLIAM D. HOARD.

By the Governor:

ERNST G. TIMME, Secretary of State.

ARE WOMEN TO BLAME?

There is a discussion in the current number of the North American Review on the question as to whether women are to blame for so many unhappy marriages. Those who take part in the discussion are Rebecca Harding Davis, Ross Terry Cooke, Marion Harland, Catherine Owen, and Emilia E. Barr. The average reader might suppose that such a question would be decided in the negative when the jury is made up of women. But it is hardly so in this case. The articles in the whole are very excellent, and contain much food for serious thought.

Any one who is reasonably well acquainted with the ways of the world and who has been a careful observer of social matters, will hardly be willing to conclude that the women are more to blame than men for unhappiness in marriage. It may be stated as a rule, of course with a limited number of exceptions, that under the most favorable circumstances the woman gets the worst end of the matrimonial yoke. She has more cares than annoy, more responsibilities than are delicate and burdensome, more pains to endure, more anxieties that lie very close to the heart, and has more anxious thought for the future. Then society is out of joint on one very important matter which touches women very seriously, and deeply wrongs them. In the case of domestic infidelity, where one is just as much to blame as the other, how many women suffer crucifixion of their characters and are banished from the homes, while men, for the same crime are permitted to go along about their business as if there was no stain about them.

There are cases, of course, and many of them, in which women are not blameless for unhappy marriages. But take the reports of the divorce courts, and nearly eight out of every ten petitions for divorce are made by women, and why? The records show that the charges are either failure to support, cruelty, habitual drunkenness, and infidelity. The matrimonial yoke is too heavy for them. They suffer in neglected homes, their daily drink are the dregs of bitterness, their portion is one of sorrow. No man can fully appreciate how burdensome are the cares of women in thousands of homes where there is a large family and very little of joy or money to help things along. Women do not get their share of the money earned, nor the loving sympathy they deserve, nor the sunshine that belongs to them. To be sure, there is another side to the question, or rather there are points taken against the women in this discussion, which in many cases will hold good. Some women in high life are extravagant as recent prominent divorce trials will show; and another charge is that too many women are trying for the money there is in it. Marriage under these circumstances becomes nothing less than a matter of bargain and sale, and if unhappiness follows it there is no wonder. Marriage founded on anything else than love and honor, to matter what the financial condition of the parties may be, will some day meet with disaster. The world is full of cases to prove this, and those who read this article will readily call to mind some home, some life, some promising beginning, that has been blighted by too much of the bargain and sale in marriage.

But returning to the original proposition, facts of history and the light of experience prove beyond all question, that there is "no share and share alike" in the responsibility of men and women in regard to unhappy marriages. This may not meet with the good opinion of men, but it matches the experience of mankind.

THE STATE PENSION AGENCY.

A dispatch from Madison says that Adjutant General Burchard has formally assumed the duties of state pension agent, in accordance with the act of the last legislature. He received all the books and documents connected with the office from Col. Walron, his predecessor, several days ago. The retiring pension agent left every thing in excellent shape, so there will be no delay in the transaction of business by the new official. The pension agency will add materially to the duties of the adjutant-general's department, as is shown by the reports of the retiring agent, who transacted business during the past year amounting to $500 monthly. However, there will be no increase in the clerical force in General Burchard's office.

The state pension agency has fallen into good hands. General Burchard is one of the most thorough and pains-taking officials in the state. He is noticing in his public duties, and will give the pension business the full benefit of his ability and unflinching industry.

The reports from Washington say that Superintendent Porter expects in a short time to have one hundred clerks engaged on the preliminary work of the eleventh census. He will have 1,000 at work next year, but the smaller number will serve until the actual work of enumeration is at hand. He says the he does not intend to appoint his clerks under the civil service rule if he can help it, and he does not believe the secretary of the interior will interfere with him in this. He intends, he says, to appoint his subordinates as he would in a newspaper office, according to their fitness for special kinds of work, and it is fair to say that he seems to have followed this policy in the few appointments already made. Mr. Porter is sensible on that point. If he must have competent clerks no "civil service" rules should interfere with him.

The sugar trust pays 10 per cent dividends on its capital of $50,000,000, of which $32,000,000 is water. In other words, it pays nearly 30 per cent on its real investment, and the recent advances will probably enable it to pay more. These are not pleasant statistics for consumers. The statesman who will find some method of breaking up these nefarious combinations will deserve to be embalmed in history as a patriot.—Baltimore American.

The republicans in the senate made an effort to do something in the direction of breaking up the sugar trust by framing the tariff bill. But nearly all the democrats in congress were opposed to such a measure, and it could not pass. It will be remembered that the Hovey-mayer refinery company is a democratic institution like many of the tyrannical trusts, and Hovey-mayer could afford to give a hundred thousand last fall for the defeat of protection.

The compliments of the season, tendered by the New York World, democratic, to Grover Cleveland: The Garland blotch, the Fellows folly, the big-head ingratitude to party that passed for independence, and the mushy obstinacy that mistook itself for firmness, the shamless performance of standing in the market-place crying civil service reform while handing over the offices to favored spokesmen and contributing $10,000 to the campaign fund after "forbidding assessments" upon office holders—all these might be forgiven for a right and resolute and capable leadership now and for the next three years: Mr. Cleveland is undoubtedly again a possibility.

The Gazette learns through the State Journal that "despite published reports to the contrary, that can be stated upon good authority that, as yet, Secretary of State Timme has come to no conclusion as to whether or not he will issue the necessary warrants on the state treasury for the payment of the well-known Littelejohn-Trumbull-Anderson claim of $12,500; as compensation for services (outside of contract stipulations) in the construction of the new university buildings. It is understood that he will not announce his determination prior to May 1.

The Dallas (Texas) News calls attention to the fact that "Texas has about 30,000,000 of acres that she is anxious to dispose of to immigrants on their own terms. And it is as fine land as can be found on earth." That is no doubt true regarding the quality of the land, and besides the climate is excellent. The only thing that ails Texas is its bad politics and the harshness with which democratic politics is imposed upon the people in some parts of the state.

The Rev. Dr. T. P. Stevenson, of Philadelphia, makes the surprising statement that the public schools of St. Louis, Chicago, Cincinnati and San Francisco are almost entirely under sectarian or atheistic sway. The reverend doctor is one of those men who like to make a strange statement to see how curious the sounds. It would no doubt bother the doctor if he were called upon for satisfactory proof with which to support his statement.

Gov. Hill has no time to devote to matrimony. His gaze is fixed upon a majestic, shadowy figure in the distance, a figure that keeps retreating, is a pretty good picture of Grover Cleveland.

To Dislodge the Enemy.

When it takes the form of disease of kidney or bladder, it is a task well nigh impossible of accomplishment. Bengal Bitter, which possesses, among other excellent qualities, those of an efficient diuretic, the degree of stimulation apparent from its use reaches, but never goes beyond the bounds of safety. It invigorates, never irritates, Bright's disease, diabetes, catarrh of the bladder, etc., and successfully combats all their incipient forms with this single medical stimulant and tonic. Besides reinforcing and regulating the kidneys and bladder, the Bitter is a specific for fever and ague, constipation and dyspepsia.

ble to extinguish or mitigate to conflagration. Two of the sleeping cars in the rear were uncoupled and drawn out of reach of the fire.

Gallant efforts were made by all present to rescue the victims and alleviate their pains. Several ladies were conspicuous by their skillful and courageous efforts in binding up the gashed and wounded. John Walsh, the boggeman, who resides at Niagara Falls, Ont., was the hero of the occasion, working like a Trojan in spite of the pain he endured from his dislocated shoulder.

As far as can be learned no blame is to be attached to any one for the accident.

Mrs. Paradiso of Denver, Col., daughter of ex-M. J. Carroll of St. Catharines, and two children were on the train, but escaped without injury. Mr. T. Carroll of this city, was also on the train and fortunately escaped.

FIRE AT LOWELL.

A Carpet Company Suffers a Loss of $200,000.

LOWELL, Mass., April 29.—The Lowell manufacturing company's five-story building on Market street was gutted by fire early Saturday morning, entailing a loss of $200,000.

The fire broke out in the rear room of the carpet mill's spinning department, and the first alarm was sounded at 3:15 a.m.

The first stream was turned on about 3:45 o'clock. The flames soon died down, and the corporation, supposing that the flames were extinguished, shut off the sprinklers. In a few moments the fire broke out again with redoubled fury and spread rapidly through the building. The roof fell in soon after 4 o'clock. At 5:30 o'clock the flames were under control. The company had nearly $40,000 worth of new machinery in the house, besides a considerable quantity of yarn and wool stock. About 700 employees are thrown out of work.

ACCIDENT AT A SUMMER RESORT.

Twenty-Five Persons Fall Through a Bridge—Four of Them Badly Hurt.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 29.—At Chelton Park, a summer resort across the Kansas line, Sunday afternoon, a bridge across an artificial lake gave way and precipitated about twenty-five persons into seven feet of water. Most of them scrambled to the bank, some to the shore, some frightened than hurt, but fifteen were injured, four of them seriously. Their names are: Mrs. J. H. Prendergast, Miss Mollie Parish, Samuel Lester, and Eddie Stevens.

Shipwrecked Hunters Rescued.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 29.—The Alaska Commercial company's steamer St. Paul arrived in port to-day from Unalaska and San Francisco, having been out on a twenty-five foot pole, it suddenly fell without warning, carrying with it Lineman Patrick Mullin, who was supporting the wires at the top of the pole. He sustained a compound fracture of the left leg and ankle joint. The pole had been set in one of the ordinary iron sockets bolted on a cracked flagstone 2½ feet, and was mainly sustained by the wires. All the wires had been cut when the pole fell. The place where the accident occurred is directly in front of Simpson, Crawford & Simpson's store and opposite the residence of Mrs. Schofield, on Sixth avenue, where Broker Hatch met his death some time ago.

A LINEMAN INJURED.

Seriously Hurt by the Premature Fall of a Telegraph Pole.

NEW YORK, April 29.—While a force of pole choppers under Foreman Hess of the department of public works, was working on a twenty-five foot pole, it suddenly fell without warning, carrying with it Lineman Patrick Mullin, who was supporting the wires at the top of the pole. He sustained a compound fracture of the left leg and ankle joint. The pole had been set in one of the ordinary iron sockets bolted on a cracked flagstone 2½ feet, and was mainly sustained by the wires. All the wires had been cut when the pole fell.

A GOOD HONEST MEDICINE.

FROM DESPAIR TO JOY.

The Painful Story of a Lovely Lady,
How She Finally Secured Happiness.Mrs. Morton D. Harlan, residing at No. 55
West 25th Street, New York City, has passed through a most wonderful experience.Mrs. Harlan had a happy home and there was no lack of money, but she was often times over-taxed her strength. She had depressed feelings, entire lack of energy in life, and finally a cough at night and morning which grew worse each day. Upon looking in the glass she saw dark circles under her eyes and found that she was losing weight and was in a bad condition.This meant consumption, and she was soon taken to a doctor.The doctor's diagnosis was that she had consumption.Mrs. Harlan was a

CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION.

MAJOR J. W. ST. JOHN ISSUES A PROCLAMATION RECOMMENDING THE OBSERVANCE OF THE CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION.

On the 30th of April, 1889, the people of the United States will commemorate the centennial of George Washington's inauguration as president of the United States.

Everywhere throughout the land preparations are being made to observe with fitting solemnity and appropriate exercises this memorable anniversary.

In conformity with the proclamation of the President of the United States and the Governor of this State, I recommend to the citizens of Janesville, to celebrate the approaching anniversary in a suitable manner by a general suspension of daily vocations and also by closing all places of business throughout the city during the day, joining in religious services in their respective places of worship and assisting in the public exercises and decorations of public and private buildings.

J. W. ST. JOHN, Mayor.

Janesville, Wis., April 20, 1889.
